A word to the wise — steer clear of Police Chief Ralph Jensen for a while. Ralph, wife Shirley and friends celebrated the Chief's birthday last Wednesday at an area Chinese restaurant, and the "Confucius advice" in Ralph's fortune cookie said: "Avoid words with one who get you in trouble. Try a right cross to the chops." (Guff said!)

Daughters seem to have a much harder time getting ahead in their father's business than sons do. At least that's the opinion of one local young lady named Laurene Baum.

Laurene, daughter of Helen and Larry Baum of Albany, has been working for her father's Monarch Manufacturing Co. in Berkeley for the past year, but hasn't received a raise as yet. So, ever anxious to get ahead in the business world, she has promised to keep mum on how dear old Dad tore his suit and skinned his knee—providing there's a raise in her next pay envelope. Bikes are for the little boys, Larry.

More news from Albany's Wisenior family—Del and Theresa's son "Buster" has re-enlisted with the U.S. Air Force, and with his family is now residing in Tacoma, Washington, where he is stationed at McChord Air Force Base, as a member of the Air Force's Ceremonial Band.

Air Force Staff Sergeant Wisenior, who is leader of the band's trombone section, was formerly top trombonist for the Bay Area's Weldonians, received his musical training at Albany High School, under the direction of Ernest Douglas.

Juliette, one of the Luoma family pets, is recuperating at home, after having a leg amputated by Albany vet Dr. Michael Floyd recently.

'Can We Afford to Live Here Anymore?': Howell

"Can we afford to live here, anymore?" asked Councilman Lewis Howell during the Good of the City portion of the Council meeting, August 7.

His remark was part of a discussion following comments by Catherine Webb, who wanted to share what she had learned while pushing doorbells in what she described as "the flatlands." The problem is in the assessed valuation of the single dwelling home owner among the multi-family units.

Said Mrs. Webb, "It is very absurd that small home owners who have lived here a long time have to pay taxes on the speculation of developers. A lot of senior citizens in Albany are hurt. The City Council should look to stop this developing, developing, developing in Albany."

That is when the fur hit the fan.

Councilman George Hein said, "We have no control over the assessed value." Mrs. Webb retorted by saying, "The City has the overall concern and emphasis that development will bring fine results while the opposite is actually happening. It is a matter that needs real study and concern."

Councilman Hubert Call then said, "I'd like to answer three questions here. First, there has been practically no zoning in Albany since 1961. Seven years ago, and that was done after 6½ years of Public Hearings. It was passed to a packed Chamber and there was not one objection. Secondly, practically everything you have suggested since I have known you would cost the City more. Thirdly, the very people complaining about high taxes would have lowered taxes. . ."

Mayor Joe Carlevaro stated, "That you are suggesting nothing new" and that the City Attorney was presently investigating ways of helping the senior citizens of Albany. Positive action by the citizens would involve "Asking for revenue sharing; put pressure on the legislators."

Neil Havlik also appeared to ask if anything had been done to reduce vehicular traffic on the Hill, and that he thought it had increased in the last months. Mayor Joe Carlevaro made reference to the San Francisco Chronicle article that had "invited people to come, therefore, it's bound to increase vehicular traffic." Councilman Clark then said, "Since the article appeared I have not seen one increase in vehicular traffic." This raised murmurs and a "What?" from the audience.

Patricia George New City Clerk

A steno pad and legal notice do not a City Clerk make, and Albany's new City Clerk, Patricia George, is proving it, bringing experience and determination as her tools-in-trade.

Mrs. George, who took over July 15 with the resignation of Althea Ippolito, has lived in Albany since 1949 and has a wide range of job experiences behind her. She graduated from Presentation High School in Berkeley in 1948, and has worked for the Berkeley Police Department, the Albany Police Department, spent 10 years in the restaurant management business and for the seven months previous to her appointment as City Clerk was the City Administrator's secretary.

Says Mrs. George, "I have always worked hard and I intend to keep working hard. I want to be a good City Clerk." Although she enjoys sewing and her yard, she says her "main interest is my family."

Finding her job a "great challenge," Mrs. George says positively "I enjoy my work." What more could a city ask for?

Council Sends Park Plan Back To Commission

By a 4-1 vote at the City Council meeting August 7, the General Plan for Albany's Parks and Recreational facilities was sent back to the Commission for reconsideration.

The motion by Councilman Lewis Howell stated that the plan be "referred back to the planners and Park and Recreation Department to take into consideration topics discussed tonight and to exclude the Waterfront but include the Terrace open space as an alternative to Feeney Field." The topics brought up by the Council members included the removal of the wading pool and commemorative granite drinking fountain to other spots in Memorial Park and increased tot areas.

Councilman Richard O. Clark, the dissenting voter had earlier made a motion that died for lack of a second. His motion called for adoption of the General Plan, with the exception of reviewing uses of Feeney Field and to include the open space proposal at Terrace Park, search for "bigger and better" open space on Albany Hill, and to include the Waterfront in the plan.

Answering Councilman Clark, Councilman Hubert Call said that "The Waterfront is in the same class as Feeney Field—limbo." He also said that the situation has totally changed since the survey was made, and that "We should hold until we see what's going to happen."

Councilman Clark then stated that "We can constantly review plans, but we must have some document on which to act. The question is if we have a document then we've committed ourselves to directions."

In other more routine business the Council granted an application for Alcohol Beverage License for on-sale beer at the Sweetheart Club. They also appointed Thomas Oakley to the permanent rank of Fire Captain, "accepted" TOPICS funds for 1971-72 from the Division of Highways, and approved a request from the City of Costa Mesa urging adoption of legislation regarding the implementation of Criminal Justice.

Three communications regarding Albany Hill were referred to the Public Hearing, August 21.

Resolutions were passed accepting the resignation of Officer Zac Hartman from the Police Department, and the appointment of Gerald M. Koehne and Michael Barham as probationary patrolmen in the Police Department. Mrs. Nancy Steinhart was appointed as Pre-School Director, and a resolution passed commending members of the Police and Fire Department for their efforts in the Stannage Avenue apartment house fire.

One ordinance amending the City Code was passed, while one other dealing with Police Chief qualifications was held over.

After the meeting adjourned, the City Council members went to the El Cerrito City Council meeting, which had Albany business on the agenda.

Oktoberfest

Oktoberfest—the annual autumn festival—will be held during two weekends at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton, September 29, 30, October 1, plus October 6, 7, & 8.

As brightly colored balloons bob, as the rows and rows of people at the tables join hands to swing back and forth to the rhythm of the band, the dance floor fills with Oktoberfest USA crowds dancing to the traditional folk melodies of Joe Smiel and his Big Bavarian Band. Throughout the two weekends, specially talented groups from all over California perform at Oktoberfest and the last weekend of the festival, Al Faessler and his Swiss Band open a second Oktoberfest hall.

Food at the Oktoberfest is plentiful and hearty. Between the two Oktoberfest halls is a vine-covered courtyard dotted with wooden picnic tables where a whole steer, basted with spices and brandy and butter, is served with salads, juicy melon slices and french rolls.

Inside the halls, hot German foods satisfy Oktoberfest USA appetites—weisswurst, bratwurst, a specially created polka sausage and crusty strudel are the perfect complement for the foaming pitchers of imported and domestic beers or soft drinks and coffee.

Oktoberfest USA is a family affair. A carnival with rides and

Red Cross To 'FIND' Elderly Poor

Richard Erickson, chairman of the Berkeley Red Cross Chapter, has issued an appeal for volunteers to assist in the nationwide program launched this month by the U.S. Government to alleviate hunger and malnutrition among the elderly poor.

At the request of the White House, the American Red Cross is mobilizing volunteers throughout the country to aid in finding the elderly people in need of Government food assistance and help them obtain it if they are eligible.

Termed "Project FIND," the Government program is an outgrowth of the 1972 White House Conference on Aging. Conference Chairman Arthur S. Fleming has stated that while 2.5 million Social Security recipients are now getting food stamps or surplus food, "many thousands more simply don't know they can get this food." Many of these old people are suffering from malnutrition and others are "even on the verge of starvation," he said.

The major thrust of Project FIND activity will be during the 90-day period, August 15 to November 15. The Berkeley Red Cross chapter will be responsible for furnishing volunteers for the Berkeley-Albany-Kensington area.

Mrs. Tamara Michailovskii, Berkeley Red Cross supervisor for "Project FIND," stresses the need for volunteers, both men and women, of college age or older. No experience is required, as volunteers will be trained for their work by the Red Cross, she explained.

There will be special need for volunteers who speak a foreign language, Spanish in particular, and for those who have cars and can take elderly clients to the Welfare office if necessary, Mrs. Michailovskii said.

Those interested in helping to fight hunger among the elderly poor are asked to call the American Red Cross, Berkeley Chapter, 2116 Allston Way and volunteer for "Project FIND." Churches and organizations willing to help the Red Cross by recruiting volunteers from among their members are urged to contact the Red Cross, Berkeley office, 845-1430.

Freeways 580 and 680 lead to the Alameda County Fairgrounds. Both weekends—September 29, 30 and October 1, and October 6, 7, and 8, the festival goes on Friday from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., Saturday from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. Admission is $3, half-price for children and advance tickets are on sale at the Neil Thrums Box Office at Breuners in Oakland.

David Bonner Commissioned

David C. Bonner of Albany was commissioned as Second Lieutenant during ceremonies held August 5 at Camp San Luis Obispo. Major General Glenn C. Ames, Commanding General, State Military Forces, stated that Bonner had completed his officer training through the California Military Academy (CMA).

The one-year training program is patterned after the Army Officer Candidate School, Fort Benning, Ga. More than 400 hours of instruction is given through the program, designed to produce qualified officers for the Army Reserve components.

A potential second lieutenant must complete courses in leadership, map reading, weapons, unit organization, administration, signal communication and tactical operations, to name the major subjects.

In addition, visits to the Pentagon, Washington, D.C., and Fort Benning are part of the year's activities.

Muir Woods: Unique Beauty

More than 120,000 acres of towering redwood trees are open to the public, year-round through California's state and federal park systems, but Muir Woods, a 502.90-acre grove near San Francisco draws by far the most visitors and provides a unique opportunity for Bay Area residents.

Muir Woods is a 40-minute drive across the Golden Gate Bridge. This year more than 700,000 people will stroll through its brook-washed shades. The new Redwood National Park and the big State groves lie 200-300 miles north of population centers, where they cater more to long-range campers and touring motorists.

Muir Woods was saved by William Kent in the early 1900's from destruction. A water company wanted to dam Redwood Creek, which gives life to the trees. This would have meant cutting down the 300-foot spires.

A walk through Muir Woods starts at a cross section of a fallen tree, its growth rings testifying to its birth before Norman William conquered England. A needle-carpeted nature trail leads along a sparkling brook to the Pinchot Memorial; and to the Cathedral Grove, with its plaque commemorating an awe-struck visit of United Nations delegates in 1945.

Hikers may follow a trail up the slopes of 2600-foot Mt. Tamalpais, or return to the ranger station through groves bordering the opposite side of the creek. Deer, raccoons and skunks are seen, and under the trees, azaleas, oxalis and swordfern grow.

Tours Teach, Naturally

"Flowered Subversives." In today's vernacular the words conjure an image of fifth column hippies, but actually they form the title of one tour in the newly expanded naturalist program at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont. The reference, of course, is to the park's botanical denizens.

East Bay Regional Park District naturalists are leading tours, by reservation, on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. On Saturdays and Sundays signs are posted at the park detailing the schedule of activities for each day. Previously, only a single, monthly open house has been held.

Activities include tours of the famed Indian mounds, Bio-solar Laboratory, and natural areas of the park under such titles, in addition to "Flowered Subversives," as "How to Survive in Your Native Land," "Helter Shelter," "Molehills out of Mountains," and others. "Flowered Subversives," by the way, is a title derived from the clever ways various flowers lure the honey bee and trick the insect into performing the task of pollination.

"Coyote Hills Regional Park is blessed with a wide variety of resources which tell the story of man's presence in the Bay Area," says Naturalist Norm Kidder. "Evidence of man's occupation of this area, from pre-Columbian Indian sites to modern research facilities, provides the material needed for an understanding of the relationship between man and the natural world he has influenced."

Las Cumbres: Oakland Wildland

"A wildland in Oakland?" may be the question camping enthusiasts will be asking this year and for years to come.

Las Cumbres—"The Hilltops"—is a new family camp developed by the East Bay Regional Park District in the hills near Oakland. The forested campsite and abundant wildlife make the entire atmosphere more one of the deep Sierras instead of one only eight miles from downtown Oakland.

This unique camping site is in Anthony Chabot Regional Park and contains 70 camping units with 12 for trailers, 22 conventional and the rest walk-in sites. An added luxury not found in most camps is the hot showers.

Set in a eucalyptus forest on the crest of the hills, the camp overlooks the 315 acres of Lake Chabot. A 1½ mile trail winds down to the lake shore where there is fishing for black bass, crappie, and bluegill.

Park Manager Greg Phillips described the convenience of Las Cumbres in that one may enjoy the traditional values of camping and yet be only minutes away from work or other responsibilities. "A person who won't have a vacation this summer can pitch his camp on a weekend, and then commute from Las Cumbres to work daily while his family enjoys camping, and he can relax under the trees or even fish along the lake shore in the long evenings."

Bay Area residents will have a chance this summer to camp out in wildlands practically in their back yards.

Arlington Women's Club Centers' First Donors

The first gift to the campaign to raise $200,000 for the Babington Regional Kidney Center has been received, James Mayfield of the campaign's general chairman and member of the Herick Memorial Hospital board, announced.

The $775, from the Arlington Women's Club, was presented to hospital by Mrs. Daniel Scott Berkeley, the club's special events chairman, and Mrs. Virgil Kennet, Kensington, immediate president. The club held a luncheon of bridge luncheons in the name of its members to raise the funds.

The 10-bed Center, which will be for patients from Alameda, Contra Costa, Napa, and Solano counties, is named in honor of Dr. H. Babington, M.D., president of Herick's board of trustees and founder, more than 20 years ago, of the medical teaching programs at Herick for inpatients and residents. The center is open around mid-August.

Kaye said that "the members of the Arlington Women's Club are deeply concerned about the losses in the Northern East Bay region due to chronic kidney disease. Some 300 people in Northern California, and more than 100 of them from Alameda and Contra Costa counties alone, each year of major kidney disease."

Mrs. Scott, who with Mrs. Monro visited patients in Herick's temporary artificial kidney unit, said that "what the hospital and we are doing for patients with chronic kidney failure is remarkable when you think that only 12 years ago there was no such thing as treatment by an artificial kidney."

"We hope that all civic minded organizations will conduct fund-raising efforts to help realize the goal of $200,000 so that sufferers from chronic kidney failure can be kept alive on an artificial kidney or prepared for a kidney transplant."

She also said that "we think it is wonderful that this center, unique to the Northern East Bay region, is being constructed at Herick, close to the patients' homes so they can be near their families while undergoing dialysis. It's important for people to know that more than 60 percent of all transplant patients at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco have been from Berkeley, Oakland and Richmond. All of these patients required pre-operative kidney dialysis to prepare them for their transplant operations."

Kaye pointed out that the uniqueness of the center was that "it will combine in Herick Hospital five patient-care services not provided in any other Northern East Bay hospital: (a) continued hospital care for patients with acute kidney failure, (b) center-based care for chronic kidney patients, (c) training of chronic patients to conduct their own dialysis on artificial kidneys in their homes, (d) postgraduate medical education programs for doctors, nurses, technicians, and allied health professionals, and (e) research on kidney-related diseases."

He said the $200,000 would be used for remodeling present facilities, acquiring initial equipment, and training personnel to staff the center.

covers quickly and is her perky little self soon.

Food for thought — In New York State the elderly are going back to school, but not for the usual reason. Governor Nelson Rockefeller has signed a bill allowing persons over 65 years of age to eat low cost meals in that state's school cafeterias.

California may soon follow this trend—a bill is being considered in Sacramento to help provide low-cost meals for seniors, partially funded by the federal government, which would be served and prepared in schools, churches and/or other community facilities.

Members of Albany American Legion Post 292 spent a recent evening entertaining patients at the Martinez Veterans' Hospital, with a "Reno Night." Over 90 patients played games for two frantic hours, with each player receiving a prize.

Incidentally, this is the only company some of these lonely hospitalized veterans ever have.

William B. Lacy of Albany Bowl, has been named to the Executive Committee of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

Bill was named to a three-year term with the Association during their 40th annual convention held recently in Honolulu.

Albany police received a call from a breathless young lady on a recent Saturday night, asking them to disregard her original call reporting her car had been stolen.

It seems that she had hemmed in her mom's car when she came home, and when Mom wanted to leave she couldn't find daughter, Jane, so she just took daughter's car.

It wouldn't have looked too good to see our newest city clerk's name on the books as a car thief, now, would it, Pat George?

Charles Hubbard of Albany, retires next week, after almost 46 years with the Santa Fe Railway.

Charles, a native Californian, joined the Santa Fe staff on October 14, 1926, and had spent all of his service in the Bay Area as a steamer clerk.

Frank Loveland, popular Albany mixologist, had good intentions and meant to make his contribution to the Albany Flag Fund, but somehow just never got around to it—until the day

Summer Jobs Breath of Life For Youth

When young workers find their services are being sought for additional work by satisfied employers, they testify to the success of Berkeley's Jobs for Youth program.

So far this summer, 240 young workers between the ages of 13 and 21 have been placed in jobs at an average wage of $1.96 an hour. They are prepared, under supervision, to do a wide range of jobs. Jobs for Youth argues that there is hardly a home or place of business that could not profitably use at least a day or two of help such as they offer and hopes home owners and others will give them an opportunity to prove this by calling 548-4295.

The Jobs for Youth office, which serves Berkeley and nearby surrounding areas, is located in the West Campus of Berkeley High School, 1222 University Avenue. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Potential employees are screened on the basis of skill and experience. Ability to do the job re-he heard someone had torn down our first flag.

That really got him going, and he marched over to the Chamber office with his donation in his hot little hand, to help pay for the replacement. Frank wonders just what someone hoped to gain by tearing the flag down . . . and so do we.

sponsibility is the sole criterion governing assignment.

Alameda County Economy Boost

Alameda County experienced a strong economic recovery in 1971 stimulated by advances in taxable retail sales and construction activity.

Alameda County's population hit an estimated 1,060,700 residents as of mid-1971. While the older cities in the northern portion of the county evidenced limited growth in recent years, Southern Alameda County ranks as one of the fastest growing regions in California.

On the downward side, total employment in Alameda County dropped to 448,000 in July, 1971, from the 1970 mid-year high of 454,800.

Manufacturing employment dipped 7.2 percent from the 1970 figure, marking the lowest level since 1964. Government employment, totaling 107,999 as of mid-1971, ranks as the largest employment category in Alameda County.

In building activity, Alameda County shared in the 1971 construction boom with building permits valued at a record $388.1 million. Residential building accounted for more than 60 percent of this total and included more than 14,000 new dwelling units.

Figures are taken from Security Bank's Research Department report.

Tips To Avoid Night Prowlers

Travellers and lone women make easy prey for loiterers with evil intent.

The National Automobile Club has these tips to ward off personal disasters.

Dimly lit parking areas near motels and the like draw greedy thieves like flies, thieves whose eyes grow wide upon spotting sporting equipment, luggage and other valuables. The thief often makes rounds of such areas, so that you don't become stranded many miles from home and minus the belongings you took with you, follow this advice.

For those one-night stays, keep your possessions in the trunk and always lock the car. If you plan to stay longer, remove valuables from your car, and put them in your place of lodging. This procedure protects your valuables and your car.

A lone woman should never turn off her headlights in her dark, open garage without these precautionary steps. Leave the headlights on, then close the garage door and open the one leading to the house.

South Seas Island Event

Memorial Park Day Camps special South Seas Island Event on Friday, July 28, 1972, was highlighted by an East Bay Philippine Dance group's performance of a Tinkling routine. Other program numbers included a hula and two South Pacific musical numbers by the day campers. Refreshments included fresh pineapple slices for performers and guests.

Third Session Summer Day Camps

Memorial and Terrace Parks third session of summer day camps is now in session. It started August 7 and will end August 25. Memorial Park Day Camp is open for children ages 6 to 12 and Terrace Park is open for children ages 6 to 9. The program includes games, group singing, dance, dramatics, arts, crafts and athletics. Trips are scheduled to the Giants baseball game, Fairyland and Lakeside Park, fishing at Berkeley Marina. The cost is $23.00 for Albany residents and $30.00 for non-residents for the three week session. The fee includes all activities, daily lunch served at noon, trips, hikes, arts and crafts supplies, and insurance. Register at the Park and Recreation Department at the Albany City Hall, 1000 San Pablo Avenue.

Hawaiian Festival

Terrace Park Day Camp had a Hawaiian Festival during the second session of Day Camp. The Day Campers participated in exciting Hawaiian games and contests: a Pass-the-Shell-Relay, a Spear-Throwing Contest, a game of Capture-the-Flag, and Race-the-Box-Boats. The children constructed huge volcanoes in the sandbox in a "Build a Volcano Contest." The boys raced boats they had constructed in an arts and crafts session. Each boy blew his boat across the wading pool, competing for the best time.

The girls presented a gala Hawaiian show for parents and friends in the park. The show opened with a chorus of "Aloha" and continued with the girls dancing two hulas in crepe paper hula skirts they had made themselves. The girls sang and danced "Hukilau" and "Little Brown Gal." Another verse of "Aloha" concluded the show.

Although there was nearly 40 people in the audience, there was fruit salad for everyone. Each Day Camper had contributed a piece of fruit which the girls had prepared for the "Fruit Luau." The fruit concoction was served in scalloped watermelon shells.

Health Tips For Camping

Albany's Health Department has released some tips for summer camping, not only to make it more healthy but also more fun.

The family which chooses a camping expedition for its summer vacation is looking for rugged, informal living, and may be much less inclined than usual to be squeamish about personal cleanliness or cautious about personal safety. Yet there are some health and safety hazards associated with camping which ought not to be ignored. Many of these potentially dangerous situations can be avoided if you are aware of them, and some of the health threats which may develop can, if treated properly, be kept from becoming serious.

Among the things every camper should know:

Tetanus shots: Anyone who is active in the outdoors and comes in direct contact with soil runs the risk of a tetanus infection. This infection is more likely to develop in the small, penetrating (and therefore unnoticed) wound than in the large, open wound. Tetanus is completely preventable through immunization. If you have not had your complete series of three tetanus shots, do so before you set out for the wilderness. If you have had your series, be sure to get a booster shot if one is due. Boosters need not be obtained more often than every five years. Call the Albany Health Department, 526-611.

Ticks: This tiny, insect-like creature, found in brush and woods, attaches itself to persons and feeds on them. If the tick has been previously feeding on an infected animal, it may in turn infect its human host with Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a disease which can be very serious. The important step in preventing this infection is to detect the tick and remove it as promptly as possible.

Snake bites: Every camping family should take with it a snake bite kit, which has everything you will need for the first aid treatment of snake bites (check with your pharmacist). Poisonous snakes are found in most parts of the country, but this is not as ominous as it sounds, because snakes are no fonder of people than people are of them. They will strike only if they are stepped on, handled, teased, or otherwise disturbed.

Swimming safety: Because you will be swimming in sites which are unfamiliar to you, you may run risks that would not threaten you on your favorite beach. Before diving in a new place, test the water for depth and for hidden logs or rocks. If you get caught in a strong current, don't try to fight it. Don't forget the safeguards which you observe while swimming at home: don't swim in water that is too cold, and don't swim immediately after a meal.

Sleeping bags: If your sleeping bag was cleaned at the end of last season and then stored, air it thoroughly before you use it. The solvent which is used in the commercial cleaning of this equipment clings to it for a long time, particularly if the bag is rolled up and stored. It can do damage both in direct contact with the skin and through inhalation. This chemical can readily be dispelled by airing.

Drinking water: If you camp where piped water is not available, stream or lake water should be boiled or treated with purification pills before drinking. In use for cooking, of course, this problem resolves itself.

ONLY PURPLE ANIMAL

The only animal that is purple in color, according to the National Automobile Club, is the blesbok, a small South African antelope.

New Health Nurse On Albany's Staff

The Albany Health Department wishes to announce a change in their nursing staff.

Sheila Kelly, Public Health Nurse, has left the department to marry and return to her home state of Washington.

Charlotte Irving, P.H.N., will be joining the staff this September. Mrs. Irving has had several years of experience nursing in Southern California. She will be assisting Vera Trapp, P.H.N., who has been with the Albany Health Department for four years.

CARLSBAD CAVERNS

Carlsbad Caverns National Park was established by President Hoover in May, 1930, reports the National Automobile Club.

ALERT DRIVERS

Alert drivers stay alive, points out the National Automobile Club.

Get Rid Of 'Junk Mail'

Virginia Knauer, Special Assistant to President Nixon for Consumer Affairs, has some advice for everyone plagued by so-called "junk mail."

If you want to rid your mail box of all unwanted mail, you should ask the Direct Mail Advertising Association and the U.S. Postal Service for help.

Direct Mail Advertising Association represent 1600 companies that send advertisements to persons on their mailing lists. To remove your name from these lists, ask the association for a "name-removal" application form. When you return the form, the association will request all its members (and some non-members) to remove your name from their lists within 60 days. Write Consumer Relations, Direct Mail Advertising Association, Inc., 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

The Association says that since it usually does not represent local companies and charitable organizations, it does not take the responsibility of asking them to remove your name from their mailing lists.

Also, the Association's name-removal service is not designed to take your name off one company's mailing list without taking it off lists of all companies. To remove your name from an individual company's list, you will have to make your own special written request to the company.

The U.S. Postal Service can help you to get your name off all mailing lists used by "smut peddlers." A Federal law protects you and your family from receiving sexually oriented materials in the mail.

Ask a clerk at the post office for a copy of form No. 2201. Fill out the form, including your name and the names of others in your family, and return it to the postal clerk. The Postal Service in Washington will add your name to its list of persons who do not want to receive pornography, and the list will be made available to all mailers of pornographic material. Thirty days after your name is added to the list, any mailer who sends you sexually oriented advertisements is subject to civil and criminal legal action by the Postal Service.

Nursing Home Regulations

Unfortunately, many of us at some time have to make a major decision we don't want to make: Should we admit a member of our family to a nursing home?

It is a difficult decision.

If you do decide on nursing home care, you will want to select the best nursing home you can afford. The only way to do that is to visit a home, look around and ask questions. If you want a good idea of what to look for in a particular home, you may want to use Federal regulations as a check list, according to Virginia Knauer of Consumer Affairs.

The Federal regulations apply only to nursing homes that receive Federal funds. To receive these funds, each nursing home must:

—Maintain an organized nursing service, directed by a full-time professional registered nurse, with at least one licensed practical nurse on duty at all times and with sufficient auxiliary personnel, including attendants and nurses aides, to ensure that each patient receives adequate care;

—Provide professional meal planning services for patients on special medically prescribed diets;

—Keep a separate medical record for each patient admitted with entries kept current, dated, and signed;

—Assure that each patient is under a doctor's care, with visits at least once every 30 days and provisions recorded in the clinical record for medical care during the doctor's absence;

—Assure that drugs and medications are properly administered and that prescription orders remain in effect no longer than 30 days unless extensions are recorded in writing by the doctor;

—Provide for adequate medical attention to patients during medical emergencies, including arrangements for transfer to a hospital;

—Assure that State and local fire protection codes are observed, that reports of periodic inspections by local fire control authorities are kept on file, that fire extinguishers are conveniently located on each floor and in special hazard areas, and that doorways, passageways, and stairwells are unobstructed and wide enough for easy evacuation of patients;

—Maintain proper lighting levels and ventilation, heating and air-conditioning facilities, hot wa-

This classic benefits the United Cerebral Palsy and Kiwanis Youth Fund. Contra Costa leads the series, 4-2, although Alameda County is fresh off a victory, 23-14, in last year's showdown.

Disabled Vets' Tax Exemption

An amendment authored by Senator John Holmdahl (D-Alameda County) has been passed by the State Assembly, extending the disabled veterans' property tax exemption.

The $10,000 exemption would be available to veterans with these disabilities: 1) blind and have lost, or lost the use of, one leg or one arm; 2) lost, or lost the use of, both an arm and leg; 3) lost both arms.

supply, and laundry services; —Employ an administrator properly licensed by the State.

If you want to find out if a nursing home has even been disqualified from receiving Federal funds, or if you find unsatisfactory conditions in a nursing home receiving Federal funds, you may want to contact the nearest district office of the Social Security Administration. The Social Security offices investigate complaints and help to enforce the regulations.
